U.S. INSISTS ON MEXICAN ACTION SOON

Attack Upon Yankee Sailors Near Tampico Arouses Washington Anger.

Carranza Pledges Punishment of the Slayers of American Citizen.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
WASHINGTON, July 21.—Urgent representation made to Mexico City by the state department as the result of the attack on American sailors in a small boat from the monitor Cheyenne near Tampico July 6, were expected by officials here to bring prompt action by the Mexican government.

Meantime further details of the attack were awaited by both the navy and state departments. No reply had been received early today from the commander of the cruiser Topoka at Tampico, who was instructed Saturday by Secretary Daniels to make a full report.

This report was expected to develop the character of the band which held up and robbed the sailors while they were on official duty. First accounts of the incident referred to the assailants as "bandits" but in the light of previous information that forces had been in complete control of the Tampico district for some time officials desired further information on this point.

Secretary Daniels said today no part of the Pacific fleet, now en route to the west coast, would be diverted to Mexican waters, adding that if additional forces were needed they would be drawn from the Atlantic fleet. Three American warships now are on duty at or near Tampico. They are the cruiser Topoka, the gunboat Castine, and the Cheyenne.

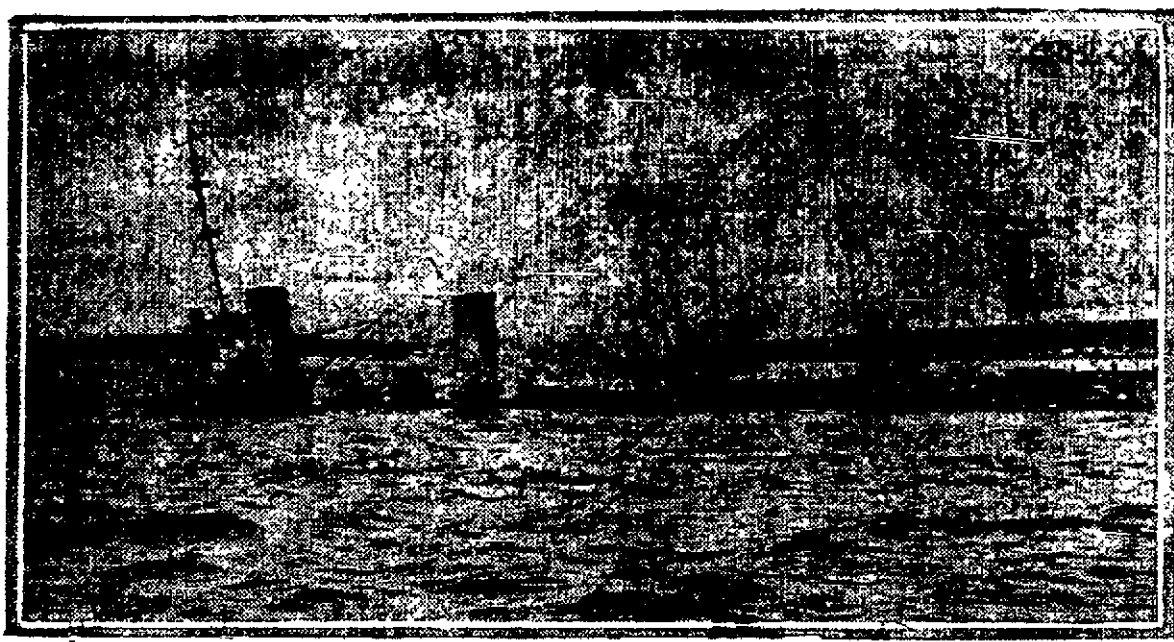

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The Mexican government replying to representations made by the United States in connection with the murder of John W. Correll, an American citizen, and the attack on his wife near Tampico recently, has stated that it would "omit no efforts in the prosecution and punishment of those responsible for a crime so odious."

JUNE BUGS ARRIVE
TOLEDO, July 21.—June bugs, or "Canadian soldiers," are so thick here that they are literally carpeting the city and district and frequently embarrassing traffic by obscuring lights. Vessel crews report that swarms of the bugs often erase the harbor lights from view. Last night on the Cherry street bridge, the bugs were in some places an inch deep on the walls.

Scuttled German Warships, Which Will Be Salvaged by British After They Had Been Deserted by Huns in Sinking Condition.

Despatches from London state that the British admiralty has placed contracts for salvaging of the German warships scuttled by their crews in Scapa Flow. This photograph was taken just as several of the German destroyers, well filled with water from their open sea cocks, were settling to the bottom.

President Ill, Physician Says Not Seriously

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
WASHINGTON, July 21.—President Wilson returned to Washington early today from a week end cruise to Hampton Roads and was immediately ordered to bed by his personal physician, Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, who announced that the president was suffering with dysentery.

Admiral Grayson said the president's condition was not serious but that he probably would be unable to receive callers before the end of the week. Engagements which Mr. Wilson had with a number of republican senators to discuss the peace treaty and the league of nations were cancelled.

SECOND LARGEST WINE VAT IN THE WORLD IS EMPTY

TOLEDO, July 21.—Prohibition's oncoming disclosed the comparatively unknown fact that in this city exists the second largest wine vat in the world.

This is the mammoth cask in the Leuk wine cellars, in West Toledo. The only larger one in the world is in Heidelberg, Germany. The Leuk vat holds 36,000 gallons. The cask is of almost priceless white oak. An ornate railing of solid oak incloses it and forms a sort of a gallery.

The whole is enshrined in a structure resembling a chapel, with stained glass windows and Gothic roof. Looking at it from the surrounding gallery one gets the impression of a stately mausoleum. The vat was built in 1883.

Within the Leuk wine cellars, which are vast subterranean passages suggesting the dungeons of medieval castles, there is a storage capacity of 850,000 gallons. In one of these passages alone are 32 huge casks, each holding 3,000 gallons. At least that is what they have held in the years that are gone.

Prior to the last day of latitude under the statute long lines of purchasers wound their way through the spacious grounds of the winery, their vehicles containing bottles, jugs and other receptacles to be filled with "the old familiar juice," as Omar Khayyam called it. The huge casks are now empty and serve only to intensify the hollow sound of the cellarer's footsteps in the great vaults.

STEEL MEN IN STRIKE.
YOUNGSTOWN, July 21.—It is said here that 13,000 of the 30,000 steel workers of the district who are affiliated with the A. F. of L., have voted on the proposition of a general strike and official of the unions assert that a vast majority of the men favor striking for recognition of the union in all steel plants.

POMERENE SAYS LEAGUE OPPOSITION IN SENATE IS DUE TO PARTISANSHIP

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
WASHINGTON, July 21.—Prompt and unreserved ratification of the peace treaty with the league of nations was urged on the senate today by Senator Pomerene, Ohio, democratic member of the foreign relations committee.

In a prepared address, crowded with constitutional and legal arguments, Senator Pomerene said the league was not a sure preventative of wars, but would tend to prevent war, and could be amended as experience required. He replied to the criticisms of Republican leader Lodge Senator Knox, republican of Pennsylvania; former Senator Root and Chairman Hays of the republican national committee. Much of the opposition, Mr. Pomerene asserted, springs from partisanship.

"Surely," said the Ohio senator, "if the treaty is ratified after the experience through which we have just passed, it will help to keep our former enemies in the straight and narrow path until the present plan can be modified or improved so as to meet the requirements of our future experiences and our mature thoughts."

"No friend of the league has ever claimed that it would be a panacea against all future wars. But we have an abiding faith that when the nations of the world, leagued together, pledge themselves to suspend warfare that international disputes can be submitted either to arbitration or to investigation and publicity incident thereto, it will materially reduce the chances of war."

Means Delay
"I would not find serious fault with some of the proposed amendments or reservations if they did not mean delay and a consequent encouragement to revolutionary elements. It is not going to be better, therefore, that we surrender some of our own convictions in the interest of immediate peace, rather than to insist upon changes which will require the pending treaty to be sent back to the associated powers."

"A war sick world demands the early ratification of the treaty. That demand must not be ignored."

"During the war many of us voted for measures, not because we would have approved them in time of peace, but because we felt the exigencies of the situation required them. May we not pursue a similar course when it comes to the ratification of the peace treaty?"

All of us recognize how extremely abnormal present conditions are, particularly in Europe. The spirit of revolution is running rife, not only in eastern Europe and within the central powers, but to some extent among the people of our allies. Ought not our aim to be the restoration of peace and the adoption of such measures for its preservation and the protection of the new born nations as shall seem to be sufficient in the present state of the public mind.

"Under the provisions of the treaty the United States has the power to withdraw from the league after two years' notice. Are not the political and military conditions in Europe such as to convince any fair-minded man that our obligations as one of the belligerents will require us to be on guard for two years and more?"

Must Stay By Friends
"We did not enter this war with the intention of turning our backs upon our friends when it would suit some selfish purpose. We entered it to fight together, and in my humble judgment to keep the peace together."

"I want to reserve the Monroe Doctrine in its entirety, but if I must choose between preservation of the Monroe Doctrine and the league of nations, I shall prefer the latter. Fortunately, we are not driven to choose between the two. We can have the

SHIP OWNERS MAY COMPROMISE THE SEAMEN'S STRIKE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
NEW YORK, July 21.—Ship owners, whose vessels are tied up at this and other Atlantic ports, today faced the problem of framing a compromise proposed to the demand of striking seamen for recognition of the union. An offer to give preferential employment to union seamen after men of American citizenship were given an opportunity to fill vacancies in crews, union leaders indicated, might be accepted since all American seamen are union members.

Ships entering New York harbor continue to tie up for an indefinite period, the crews quitting immediately. Ships scheduled to leave port days ago remain at their piers loaded with cargo. Freight houses are piled high with merchandise ready to be loaded on ships that cannot reach this port from other harbors along the Atlantic coast.

It was estimated that about half of the shipping under the American flag was tied up in New York and other Atlantic ports.

Estimates of ships tied up in American harbors on account of the strike range from 500 to 800.

By raising eight and a half feet the dam which impounds water for Bombay its capacity was increased 10,000,000 gallons.

State Insurance Fund Total is $20,000,000

COLUMBUS, July 21.—There was a balance of almost $20,000,000 in the workmen's compensation fund at the end of the fiscal year ending June 30, according to a report of the industrial commission Saturday. The exact balance is $18,066,685.59 of which amount $15,742,819.14 is invested in state, government and municipal bonds.

Of the balance, $2,320,500 is deposited with various banks of the state and $99,366.45 is in the active account from which all warrants drawn are paid. The balance is the largest in the history of the workmen's compensation law.

GEN. DICKMAN OF OHIO, RETURNS TO DUTY IN AMERICA

NEW YORK, July 21.—Ten commanders who distinguished themselves with the American Expeditionary Forces returned to the United States upon the Cunard Line steamship Aquitania, which docked today. The party included Major General Jos. T. Dickman, of Ohio, who commanded the original American Army of Occupation. With them was Benedict Crowell, Assistant Secretary of War, who has been in Europe on an aviation mission.

Among others in the contingent of military leaders, the largest which has returned upon one ship, were Major General George O. Squier, Chief of the Signal Corps, and Major General Patrick H. Barradine. General Harold B. Fiske, Harry A. Smith, Wilson D. Burit, Stuart Heintzelman, Denis E. Nolan and Joseph C. Castner. General Dickman and his companions were met at the pier by Major General David C. Shanks, commander of the port of embarkation, who handed them orders from the War Department.

Generals Receive Details
General Dickman has been assigned to the command of the Department of the South, with headquarters at San Antonio, Texas; General Souther to the Air Service in Washington, General Fiske to the command of an infantry regiment, General Castner to Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., and the others to duty in Washington.

Angry Citizens Rout Socialist

WARREN, July 21.—Citizens of Newton Falls, ten miles west of here, attacked Ed S. Smith, wealthy socialist of this city, Saturday night after Smith and several other socialists attempted to hold a meeting there. When Smith declared his allegiance to the red flag a crowd of citizens started for the river with him intending to duck him, but the mayor and authorities interceded and rescued him. He was placed in jail after he had been forced to kiss the American flag. Later he was released.

Razor is Clue To a Murder

CLEVELAND, July 21.—A mysterious inscription on a razor was the clue upon which police were focusing attention today in the hope of finding the assassin who Friday night backed Daniel Kaber, 46, wealthy publisher, to death. The razor was found in the kitchen of the Kaber home in Lakewood, where Kaber, a bed-ridden invalid, was attacked while he slept and was stabbed twenty-five times with an improvised dagger.

So far police have been unable to decide just what the razor inscription is.

DESOLATION IS SPREAD OVER A WIDE DISTRICT IN THE MINING COUNTRY

MANY INJURED IN RACE CLASHES IN WASHINGTON, D. C.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
WASHINGTON, July 21.—Police and hospital records today showed scores of negroes were injured in the widespread clashes between whites and negroes here last night. More than a dozen negroes, some of them suffering from severe beatings at the hands of mobs, were treated at hospitals and scores were cared for at their homes.

The rioting, which began shortly after 10 o'clock, lasted until early this morning and although many arrests were made so widely scattered were the outbreaks that the police and a detail of provost guards were unable to cope with the situation. Riot calls came in from several sections in rapid succession and the entire police reserve was kept on the jump practically all night.

Most of the injured negroes were set upon singly or in pairs but the more serious of the clashes were between mobs and negroes who assembled in crowds at several points. Clubs and stones were used freely but no fire arms, and fists were the principal weapons of battle.

At times the mobs reached the proportion of a thousand or more persons and in a number of cases policemen who sought to aid negro victims of the attacks were overwhelmed. In several instances negroes were pulled from street cars along Pennsylvania avenue and beaten on unconsciousness. Soldiers, sailors and marines were said by the police to have been leaders in the disorders.

BOY BANDITS HOLD OFFICERS AT BAY WITH AUTOMATICS

DENNISON, July 21.—Grant street was under fire Sunday morning from 3 to 10.

Bullets from two automatic rifles taken by two boy bandits from the meat market of H. G. Clark and an army automatic revolver spattered against buildings.

Police, after a search in which bloodhounds were used, discovered the lair of the boys on Point Breese, an upland overlooking North Dennison. Arrest of the boys, police say, cleared up the identity of the snipers, as well as that of the burglars who last night entered the hardware stores of G. D. Haas and Charles Rausch and the meat market of H. G. Clark.

The boys, who were surrounded by Chief of Police A. H. Maxwell and a posse of four, surrendered a mile and a half from the ammunition dump. They offered no resistance, although one of the lads carried the revolver and three or four boxes of ammunition.

The ammunition dump was located at the base of a tree. Twenty boxes of cartridges, the two rifles and a quantity of cutlery, were found there.

EIGHT AUTOS STOLEN.
HAMILTON, July 21.—A wave of automobile thefts in this city since Saturday night resulted in stealing of eight machines, valued at over $8,000. Several machines were later found abandoned on Butler county roads.

Bridges and Houses Destroyed and Farmers Lose Immense Crops.

ST. CHARLESVILLE, July 21.—Nine persons are known to be dead in the flood swept Belmont and other eastern Ohio counties Sunday. Four bodies have been recovered.

The dead are: Mrs. Mary Hatfield, 42, Mary Hatfield, 6, John Hatfield, Jr., 10, Michael Hatfield, 7, Mrs. Pearl Stove, 45, Stella Stove, 5, Mary and Margaret Stove, twins, 3, Rosie Stove, 1 month. The storm centered in the Wesco Creek valley and it was there the victims met death. They are families of miners employed by the Cambria Mining Co., at the Webb mine, six miles from Bellville.

As the flood swept down the valley, it caught and carried away three houses. The family of John Prouk escaped. Two of the houses were swept against the Pennsylvania railroad bridge and demolished.

When Hatfield and two children were seen floating on a mattress after the house was crushed against the bridge, his wife and two children were observed on another mattress. Hatfield caught a tree and tried to save members of his family, but failed. He was forced to remain in the trees several hours before he was rescued.

The Stove family was not seen after the water swept the house away. Mr. Stove was away from home picking berries when the storm broke.

Rumors that four other persons were drowned were not credited by Coroner J. R. Wyatt.

The power plant of the coal mine was flooded and 1,000 feet of track was washed out. The mine, the largest in Ohio, will be idle for at least two weeks, it is reported.

At Barton, the Youngloughs and Ohio Coal Co. store and the E. N. Boggs store were flooded and the mine was damaged. Railroad bridges at a new mine near Yorkville, Jefferson county were damaged and several houses were carried away.

At Halloway, Mrs. H. M. Carr, wife of a B. & O. conductor and Dorothy Craig, 6, were rescued after being swept 200 yards through a sewer.

Search is continuing for the bodies of the other victims of the Wesco valley disaster. Officials fear they have been swept into the Ohio river. The damage to crops will be heavy.

FRENCH TRYING TO BUY SUGAR IN UNITED STATES

PARIS, July 21.—American officials attempting to solve the food question, are confronted with a sugar shortage in France that is said to call either for Americans to sacrifice some of their sweet drinks or for the French to give up their sweet pastries.

The American officials, it is understood, are decidedly in favor of allowing Americans to continue the use of sugar for their sweet drinks. The French authorities, however, are anxious to obtain sugar from the United States, but exportation from the American market now is prohibited to protect American consumers.

French food officials, it is explained, were given an option last fall on as large a proportion of the Cuban sugar crop as they wished. The French, however, took only about 31 per cent of the crop, although American officials warned the French of an impending world sugar shortage. Now that the French face a serious sugar deficit they are seeking an American supply where prices are lower than elsewhere.

Sugar is not so plentiful in Czechoslovakia, but the Czechs are asking 25 cents a pound. Stocks are available elsewhere, but at prices far higher than in the United States.

Consumption of sugar has increased at such unexpected rate that American refineries have been unable to meet the demand, although raw sugar is abundant. Since the United States went dry, it is said here, consumption there increased 50,000 tons monthly, chiefly because of its use in sweet drinks.

While sugar was rationed, the per capita consumption in the United States dropped from 85 pounds a year to 45. Indications now are that the increased use of sugar since the amnesty will make the consumption exceed all previous figures.

DENTIST TO ELEPHANT LEADS EXCITING LIFE

A DENTAL OPERATION WITH GREAT CIRCUS.

Practicing dentistry among "pachyderms" confined solely to elephants is said to be the most exciting profession. Unlike the requirements of these gentlemen who cater to the aches and ills of human beings, the pachyderm operator requires no great knowledge of jaw surgery. It is to be done with a strong right arm, indomitable courage and a supply of cast iron instruments. He need never bother his head about the state of dental examinations. George Denman, such a man. Therefore, he is the keeper of the block, tackle and drilling machinery with the great, new Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows, due to arrive here, elephants and all, Saturday, July 26.

In examining cavernous mouths for possible ills, Denman uses a big hand mirror and a 500-watt incandescent globe attached to a wire which leads from one of the circus dynamo wagons. Now and then he has actually filled a cavity with cement, but extraction is the more popular manner of relieving a patient in pain. In performing, this operation Denman scorns the forceps methods. His treatment is merely an evolution of the good old-fashioned scheme taught by our grandmothers, where by one end of a string is fastened about the objectionable tooth and the other end tied to a flat iron. The evolution consists of using a strand of cable in lieu of twine and a couple of husky assistants to yank the same. When the free end of the strand has been properly attached to the "snag," Denman gives a signal with his incandescent lamp much after the fashion of a brakeman waving a lantern, the pullers pull, "Doc" dodges and the tooth flies through the air.

The elephant numbers presented by the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows are the most remarkable ever attempted in a circus. There are six different herds of ponderous actors. After being exhibited in separate groups they are combined in one mammoth company, so numerous that the entire length of the hippodrome track is required to stage their gigantic performance.

THE EDUCATIONAL DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF LABOR, is conducting a nation-wide campaign for wage-earners to own and build their own homes.

Many cities are already co-operating to the fullest extent. Every city should.

2,000,000 homes are needed now. Think of it! And when we get them it means 4,000,000 better citizens!

Give a man a good home and you've made a good citizen! He'll take his coat off to maintain it. He'll take pride in it. His children will grow into better men and women under its influence.

The Hoover-Roush store will help.

The policy of this store has always been to serve the people. We'll put our shoulders to the wheel and help the wage-earners furnish the homes they build and own with furniture and furnishings they'll be just as proud of as their homes, on a basis that will make it easy for all.

We feel that it is but part of our responsibility to the community which has made us successful.

AMUSEMENTS

THE GIRL WHO STAYED AT HOME.

Perhaps the highest praise which can be accorded "The Girl Who Stayed at Home," which opened at the Faurot yesterday, is its merited classification as a production worthy the reputation of the master hand directing it. War melodramas are something of a drug on the film market, the familiar material of which they are composed being seemingly worn threadbare, but along comes David W. Griffith waving his magic wand and instantly there confronts us a story throbbing with acute realism. Yet the element of gloom never predominates, for relief from the dark side of the great world tragedy is provided by the interpolation of tender love romance and delightful comedy so cunningly interwoven into the meshes of the tale that it may be said to run the entire gamut of human emotions, holding the spectators fast in the grip of suspense, swaying them from indignation to sorrow, from tears to laughter.

That the narrative preserves unbroken continuity is not the least of its admirable qualities. For it is virtually two stories moulded into one, each of the brothers Grey figuring as a hero, and their respective sweethearts cast in heroine roles. And, this phase of a photoplay, as everyone who has penetrated the mysteries of studio land knows, requires unusually expert handling to prevent it from fraying off into a chaos of tangled threads. But in the present instance one is never allowed to lose track of either romance, the balance of events is maintained with artistic precision and the action glides smoothly, swiftly, into a bright and satisfactory climax.

Adolphe Lestina gives a dignified and appealing performance as the stately, unreconstructed southern rebel, Le France, and the cast as a whole renders splendid service. Mr. Griffith possesses a happy knack of picking up persons hitherto unknown to theatrical fame and transforming his find into stars on short notice. In this connection the feminine leads of Blossom and Cutie, played respectively by Carol Dempster and Clarine Seymour, will instantly occur to all who have seen the picture. The work of both girls deserves more than passing mention for its excellence and augurs well for their screen future.

The photoplay is faultless. Better lighting effects have never been utilized, long shots, closeups, interiors combine to render this camera triumph of wonderful interest and beauty.

The Pathe News, Bray Cartoons and Paramount Pictographs are added features of the program. Last times tonight.

AT THE LYRIC

Rumpelstilzen cannot be denied a prominent place in the cast of Madge Kennedy's newest Goldwyn Picture, "Day Dreams," by Cosmo Hamilton, at the Lyric tonight. Rumpie is only a goose, but in the play he is a prince of the sea that a wicked fairy has transformed into what he really is—a goose.

Rumpie does some wonderful things in "Day Dreams," and perhaps that is why Primrose (Madge Kennedy) is always at his side, petting and feeding him and always lending a willing ear to his tales of woe. For Rumpie has much to endure throughout the production—much, taking the form of a dog that is always pestering him and trying, as only a meddlesome canine can, to bring Rumpie back to earth and to awaken him and Primrose from the hallucination that Rumpie is a prince of the sea or anything but a goose.

DAYLIGHT LAW STICKS

WASHINGTON, July 21.—With the rider for repeal of the daylight saving law eliminated by the house for the second time, the annual agricultural appropriation bill now awaits action by the senate. Attempts of republican leaders in the house yesterday to retain the rider when the remodeled bill was passed, was defeated through the condition of an almost solid democratic opposition and a number of republican votes, the final effort being 203 to 171.

Municipal Ownership

THOSE WHO have made a real study of municipal ownership are not enthusiastic over it. It looks very good from a distance but "close-up" as the movies call it, is not so attractive.

But in Lima conditions are a great deal different than elsewhere. The Ohio Electric company has for many years been promising service and other things, and it has regarded most of its promises as mere "scraps of paper."

Now it comes forward with the promise that it will spend a lot of money in improvements and in the building of a new power plant, but its promises are at a discount in Lima.

No doubt if Manager Dugan has the final say we may have some faith in what the future is to hold forth. Lima people are inclined to have confidence in the new manager.

But the fact is always before us that Lima folks are simply past the point of counting on the Ohio Electric. That is why, unless we interpret the signs wrong, there are a good many thousand voters who are going to vote "yes" on the municipal ownership proposition. They are not exactly for municipal ownership but they are through with the Ohio Electric.

German U-Boats

ACCORDING to the latest reports, Germany lost two hundred U-boats during the war. Eighty-two of them were sunk in the North sea or the Atlantic, and seventy-two went down off the coast of Flanders. The balance are accounted for in other waters. The same report also shows that Germany lost in killed about thirty thousand sailors, including those lost upon the undersea craft.

Other naval losses of Germany prior to surrendering her fleets were one battleship, one battle cruiser, six armored cruisers, eight modern and ten older smaller cruisers, seven gunboats, fifty destroyers, twenty large and forty small torpedo boats, twenty-eight mine sweepers, nine auxiliary cruisers and one hundred and twenty-two trawlers and other auxiliary vessels.

In commenting upon Germany's submarine losses, a former member of the German navy says that the ability of the allies to cope with the submarine campaign was really the great surprise of the war to the Germans. They never dreamed that the allies would be able to destroy and capture so many of them. Indeed, in all their plans, the Germans figured that the allies would be unable to accomplish anything against the undersea craft. So when submarines began failing to return with never a word as to how they had been put out of business, the Germans began to awaken to the fact that all was not well with their submarine campaign.

While there was more or less of complaint in England as well as in this country about the silence of the naval departments as to their victories, the German says that the thing which caused Germany the most uneasiness was this very silence. Had they been able to find out how they were losing their submarines, they might have prevented some of the losses. But the British navy never mentioned having put a submarine out of business, and the Germans knew only that a certain craft had failed to return. They did not know whether it was due to some imperfection of its own machinery, to an accident of some kind, or to the actions of the enemy navy. So again we can see that our criticisms displayed only our own ignorance, that the department criticized was doing the right thing.

More "Economy"

WHOLESALE RESIGNATIONS from the faculty of Ohio State University, which will make it necessary to secure almost a complete new teaching force, are nothing less than a severe rebuke for a state legislature that failed of every purpose for which it was elected. When one considers that this legislature appropriated almost $55,000,000, which is far and beyond the amount they put into the treasury, and that thousands of dollars were spent on book gifts and thousands more thrown around in every direction, the situation that exists at the state university is unwarranted and there can be no escaping the responsibility. Instructors long have been underpaid, and it was with difficulty that good ones have been held. Now, with the cost of living so much higher, these men are unable to live on the salaries paid them. Many are going to other institutions of learning; others find much better salaries offered them in the business world. The republican leaders of the legislature will probably say that they cut down the university's appropriations in the interest of economy, but the people of the state, proud of this institution and jealous of its good name, will not judge it so. In truth it is but another indictment against the republican majority in both houses for inefficiency and unworthiness.

Be Honest, Senator!

SENATOR WARREN G. HARDING wrote the Ohio plank pledging the party in this state to a league of nations. The senator's next act was to sign a round robin, pledging himself not to vote for ratification of the league. And this, mind you, happened before the esteemed senator knew anything of the contents of the league covenant.

The senator's alibi for the Ohio platform pledge is that the republican party is for a league but not for the league. We ask then, not without some amusement, how it is that Warren Gamaliel knew, when he signed the round robin, whether it was "The" league or "A" league, that he agreed to oppose.

Warren G. should be honest. We know and so does everyone else in America, that the reason he is against the league is because a democratic president has something to do with its framers.

HAPPY THOUGHT A good many motorists wish they could run up bills like their wives run up bills.

A Columbus paragrapher rises to remark that he is certain there will be no "drives" or tag days in heaven.

They say that Captain Boy-Ed wants to come back to America to live, but it is not likely that he will be met at the dock with a brass band—the enemy alien act would be more like it.

GOOD EVENING—They ought to hold that meeting of Council tonight in Memorial Hall, judging from the advance demand for seats.

The Times' Family Doctor

WHY YOU SHOULDN'T TREAT A RUNNING EAR AT HOME

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D. (John Hopkins University).

When a child claps his ear and shrieks with pain do not delay with home treatments, but summon an ear specialist or hasten to the ear hospital. Often the baby will put its hand to the affected ear or bump its head down on the pillow. As a rule, an observant, attentive, intelligent mother at once discovers earache.

Nine times in ten, the mother makes the life-long mistake of treating the child at home. Oil in the ear is an abomination and a physical evil, a fact that I have tried to ingrain into the family habits of my readers.

Running ears and perforated ear drums are proofs in adult life that mothers still risk the sense of hearing in their babies, by some remedies which allow the abscessed ear of the infant to burst—nearly always in the wrong place—instead of calling the ear specialist, whose magic lance properly perforates the drum. This lets out the matter and eases the pain. The drum heals quickly and no hole is left in it.

What it is.
 Don't let any one tell you that "a child will outgrow a running ear." In the words of Dr. C. M. Sautter of New York: "He knows very well that when he makes this statement it is an untruth."

"A running ear is an abscess next door to the brain. Meningitis, abscess of the brain, a clot on the brain are all or one possible. Mastoid abscess is even more common than these."

A fall or a blow upon almost any part of the anatomy of a person with an untreated, running ear, may so dislodge the balance and continuity as to stir up a sleeping abscess.

A boy whose mother has sent him at the age of 14 with a note to request a certificate to allow him to enter public school, because he could not hear, had been a pupil at a deaf and dumb institute. Nine months before he had been operated on for a mastoid, and two months later for the same thing on the other side. Consult a Specialist.

On his return from the hospital he was found to be able to hear a moderate whisper in either ear at 45 feet. Twenty feet is the normal distance. Previously he had been very deaf with running ears.

If examined carefully a person with running or perforated ears is found not to hear well. Many of them do not know it or from modesty and delusive self-satisfaction refuse to admit it.

However, do not sacrifice your child's future to a false economy or a foolish vanity that you can treat an earache as well as an ear specialist.

Answers to Health Questions.

A. M. S. Q. What do you think best for hives?

A—Hives may sometimes be due to a hypersensitive state of the human tissues usually to some particular article of food. It may be caused by berries, fish, tomatoes, beer, fruits, drugs, odors, clams and oysters. The remedy depends upon the thing that is responsible for the trouble, and then to eliminate it from the diet. While looking for this the itching can be relieved by applying a little of the following lotion:

Pink calamine.....2 1-2 drams
 Zinc oxide.....2 drams
 Glycerine.....2 drams
 Phenol.....30 drops
 Lime water.....2 ounces
 Rosewater.....2 ounces

POUR YEARS. Q—What can I do for dizziness?

A—Dizziness is caused by middle ear trouble, gall stones, high blood pressure, internal trouble, and gout or enlarged thyroid. You must have an examination made by a careful investigator before proper treatment can be given.

SAVED HIS LIFE

A rather seely looking man rushed into a coach as the train stopped at the station, exclaiming:

"Has anyone any brands? A lady in the next carriage has just fainted."

Half a dozen flasks were at once offered. Seizing one the man removed the stopper, and, putting the flask to his lips, took a long, lingering pull at the fluid.

"Ah!" he exclaimed, with intense feeling, "I feel better now. Many thanks, sir. Seeing a woman faint always upsets me so."—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

SHE SMELLED THEM

Dear old auntie had been invited to the social gathering in the new garden suburb.

While she didn't "hold with these new fangled ideas," she always prided herself on being slap-bang up to date in all new developments—social, intellectual, and domestic.

When she arrived her nieces were waiting to greet her.

"Hello, auntie, here you are! We're so glad you were able to come. We're going to have something new tonight. We're going to have some tableaux-vivants."

"Yes, I know—I know," replied the old dear. "I could smell 'em as I was coming along. I hope they'll be as crisp as those we had at Cousin Henry's."

To steady sailboats in rough water a Japanese has patented stabilizers consisting of wing-like devices to extend from their sides and help to hold them erect.

Wings pass through a double action turbine invented by a Hungarian engineer, exerting its force on vanes on opposite sides before it is discharged.

Short Stories of the Buckeye State

EARLY DAYS AT WORTHINGTON.

On the account side of the old memorandum book once the property of A. Mattoon, pioneer blacksmith of Worthington, referred to yesterday in this space, are a number of entries that are interesting now because of the sidelights they throw on the customs and manner of living of that early day, and the comparison they offer with the prices of the present time.

One of Blacksmith Mattoon's patrons was Orange Johnson, afterward a prominent resident and business man of Columbus, and the father of Mrs. Francis C. Sessions, whose death occurred a few months ago. In May, 1849, Mattoon charged Johnson 37 1-2 cents for toeing and setting two shoes on his horse. He made a ring for a neck-yoke for 6 1-4 cents. He set the tires on the wheels of the Johnson carriage for $1.50. In June of that year he charged Johnson 25 cents for a nut for his scythe and for fixing his pitchfork. In July he set two shoes and fixed a breast chain for 37 1-2 cents, and in August charged 12 1-2 cents for "working at the lame foot of a sick horse."

Below the account as thus set out, there appears under the date of March 28, 1851, in the hand-writing of Mr. Johnson this entry:

"We, the undersigned, this day have reckoned and found due to A. Mattoon four dollars and twenty-seven cents to balance accounts."

Another entry of the date of March 21, 1849, shows that William Clark on that day occupied Mattoon's house or part of it as a renter, at $3.50 a month. He also bought produce of his landlord, being charged for a dozen eggs five cents, in March, and in the late summer the price rose to eight cents. Nine quarts of molasses cost 25 cents; a bushel of corn meal was furnished for 31 1-4 cents.

Alanson Bull, a pioneer resident of Clintonville, was also a patron of the Mattoon shop. It would seem that the blacksmith was also something of a tailor—peculiar combination of trades—for there is a charge of 75 cents for "making pants for Alanson." Butter and lard were taken in trade in payment for these charges, but the price is not given, a parenthetical note "not good" appearing in the margin, indicating that that was left open. The account was not closed on the book.

INVESTIGATIONS FAIL.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Housewives are rather "fed up" with congressional investigations of the high cost of living and would prefer enactment of remedial legislation. Miss Jessie Haver, legislative representative of the National Consumers' league wrote to Representative Tinkham of Massachusetts. Mr. Tinkham has introduced a bill appropriating $30,000 for a nation-wide inquiry into living costs.

OUR BED-TIME STORY
FOR TINY TIMES-DEMOCRAT FOLKS

Well, maybe you have guessed since yesterday who sent the official letter. Well it was from Prince Charles—now King Charles. In the letter the king told how he had been offered the throne by his faithful followers a few days after Captain Brave had rescued him from the attack of his enemies. In fact the attack on his life was a final effort on the part of his enemies to kill him, as they knew at that time that nothing could prevent his men from placing him in power.

So now King Charles and his wife, Queen May, had come into their own again. He was back in the big castle in his own kingdom and Queen

May, with whom the children had fallen in love on their visit to the Azores, was wearing the queenly robes she had told the children so much about.

He ended his letter by telling Captain Brave that he would feel offended if the Captain and Ladydear and Jack and Jane failed to visit him right away so that he could return some of the kindness they had shown him. For Captain Brave's benefit he enclosed directions as to how to reach his little kingdom and the castle in it.

The children were eager to go immediately. Captain Brave and Ladydear talked the matter over for a few minutes and then decided, much to the children's delight, to start immediately for King Charles' home.

It was late by the time the children had heard all the news, and they were wondering if Captain Brave would make them wait until tomorrow morning to start for the king's castle, but Captain Brave had no such intention.

He turned to Ladydear and asked her if they had provisions enough to start, immediately, and she said yes. Jeanne was very quiet and very sad for she felt that the departure of her friends for the other country meant that she would be left behind. Ladydear made her very happy when she said, "I will slip out with Jeanne a minute and see if I can buy a few clothes for her before the village stores close." Jack and Jane were glad that Jeanne was going along. Back in Make-Believe town they had always wanted a playmate and Jeanne already seemed just like a sister to them.

When Jeanne and Ladydear returned, Captain Brave explained to the little French girl that they would be coming back to France after their visit to the king and would then continue the search for her parents.

"Perhaps some of the kind folk who have tried to help us find your mother will learn something of her while we are gone," he said.

Jeanne showed the children the pretty things that Ladydear had bought for her. They were prettier than anything she had ever had, even before the war came. There was a pretty white dress with lots of lace on it for real dress-up occasions, lots of play dresses, a coat and hat, and shoes and stockings and other things like Jane had. They were put away in the airplane with Jane's clothes and the little group got all ready to start.

As soon as the airplane left the ground and was well on its way, Ladydear tucked the little folks into bed with the news that by the time they woke up in the morning the airplane would be in the little kingdom and nearing the castle.

Ladydear and Captain Brave took turns guiding the airplane through the night.

this Summer!

"Pike's Peak or Bust," was the half-comic, half-tragic legend carried by the prairie schooners crossing the great plains back in '49. Pike's Peak, then, meant gold. If you didn't find it, you "went bust."

Pike's Peak is there today—more than 14,000 feet altitude—and other equally impressive peaks of the Rockies—Longs and Grays, Buckskin and Ouray, Spanish and Culebra.

And great ranges of mountains, too—Saguache, Sangre de Cristo, San Juan, Uncompahgre, Wasatch, Uintah, Oquirrh—noted in song and story.

But now you go there in luxurious trains, on rails of steel. You go for the gold of renewed health, the silver of vacation rest.

There is no possibility of failure, no going broke. Everywhere you find a multitude of wilderness outing joys, just around the corner from resort hotels. And, if you search for it, the fabled pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

CLAIMS WIFE IS NEGLECTFUL, ASKS DIVORCE FROM HER

In common pleas court this morning, Hector Ridenour, employe of the Lima Fire Department, filed suit for divorce from Grace Ridenour, charging gross neglect of duty in his petition. According to Ridenour, his wife frequently goes to dances at night, while he is at the fire department, and leaves two minor children alone at home, or allows them to remain with neighbors, until late hours.

The petition sets forth, Mrs. Ridenour on several occasions left home and remained away days, without giving any explanation to her husband for her actions. In no way has she performed the marital duties of a wife, and has made false accusations against him, he avers.

According to Ridenour's petition, he has been forced to obtain his meals in restaurants, because his wife will not prepare them for him. Ridenour asks that he be granted a divorce, and custody of the two minor children. The couple were married, January 17, 1907.

The city of Lima this afternoon confessed judgment in the sum of $250 to Sarah Amacher, 1044 East Wayne street, who recently entered suit for $500 in common pleas court, alleging her property has been damaged to that extent by the placing of the Detroit Toledo & Ironton railroad switch to the water works.

She averred, after paying for the paving of the street on which her residence fronts, the track was laid, and the ground was never graded, making it almost impossible for a vehicle to pass another on the street.

DENIES DISORDER

Rolly Hancock, 25, East North street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of drunk and disorderly conduct, when arraigned in police court this morning. His hearing was set for July 25.

Steen Settles Support Case

At the instance of Frank Killian, local humane officer, Clyde P. Steen, former Lima newspaper man, was arrested in Bedford, Va., on a charge of non-support of two minor children. According to the petition filed in Justice Hamilton's office by Killian, Steen, since June 1, 1919, has not contributed toward the support of these children.

Today the case was dropped, according to attaches of the justice's office, following a receipt of payments for the support of the children.

Under condition that they make the payments, now in arrears, to their aged mother, and contribute to her support in the future, Frank and Claude Pryne, were released by Judge Klinger in order that they might work in harvest fields. The men were arrested Thursday at the instance of court officials on a charge of not living up to an agreement made in court.

Recently the men were indicted upon a non-support charge. They were given a suspended sentence upon condition they contribute to the support of the aged mother. They agreed, but according to officials, have not done this.

COUNTY MEETINGS TO ORGANIZE NEW HEALTH DISTRICTS

A meeting will be held sometime during the month of August at a date to be announced later, in each county in the state of Ohio of the mayors and township trustees' chairmen, to select a preliminary organization under the Hughes health district act, if the request of the state department of health in a letter now in the hands of these local officials is complied with.

This meeting, at which mayors and township chairmen will organize themselves into a district advisory council and will choose a district board of health for the county, cannot be held before August 10, the date of which the Hughes act becomes effective. State health officials are urging immediate action after that date, however, to prevent delays which may leave the county without any health protection after January 1920, when the present municipal and township health departments pass out of existence.

Such a result might be extremely serious if next winter should be marked by an epidemic outbreak similar to the dread influence of last winter and fall.

NEGROES FIRE AT PATIENTS ON NAVAL HOSPITAL GROUNDS

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The federal government intervened today to prevent a recurrence of the attacks made Saturday and Sunday nights by soldiers, sailors and marines against negroes in retaliation for assaults by negroes on white women in this city. After a conference between Secretary Baker and the local governing authorities, army protest guard was restored to duty.

Just about noon today the negroes gave the first evidences of retaliation. Four blacks in an automobile drove up to the naval hospital in Potomac park, not far from the White House and fired four shots at the sentry. They had whisked their machine around the street corner and fired four more shots at inmates on the hospital grounds, all of them sick or wounded sailors and marines. The machine and its party got away. The shots all went wild. Under the auspices of the National Race congress, a mass meeting of negroes assembled this afternoon to act on resolutions protesting against the attacks upon them.

AT THE ROYAL.

At the Royal today we have another of the popular Triangle attractions. The popularity of Oscar Wilde, and the tremendous success enjoyed by the presentation of the most powerful drama of this remarkable genius, "Lady Windermere's Fan," when it was presented on the stage by such renowned actresses as Lillian Russell and Margaret Anglan, should assure the success of the screen version of this classic.

Not only are the famous and beloved characters of "Tuppy," the good-natured old clubman; Agatha Carlisle, who "just adores sunsets," and her gossip-loving mother, carefully and cleverly drawn, but they are transferred to the screen with ease by the picture artists who portray these roles in the drama, roles which are enhanced by cleverly worded titles, developing characters that are unusual and different.

In addition to this can be seen another of the two-reel Keystone comedies entitled "The Moonshiners" and starring Al St. Johns.

Tuesday and Wednesday is offered the World Feature, "The Little Intruder," featuring Louis Huff, in addition to one of the popular Christie comedies.

Pomerene Defends World's League

protection of both the league of nations and the Monroe doctrine. "The treaties affording American protection to Panama and Cuba and the arbitration treaties with many countries were cited as arguments that America does not surrender sovereignty by membership in the league."

The senator also denied that the league involved outbalancing alliances, saying the league was "an alliance for defensive purposes only." Replying to Senator Knox's proposal for a separation of the league from the treaty, Senator Pomerene said the league constituted "machinery by which the terms of peace are to be carried out."

He said he did not understand that Senator Root has ever to this day changed his view as to the necessity of the formation of the league of nations.

Monroe Idea Safe

The Monroe doctrine in the final covenant, Mr. Pomerene said, is amply safeguarded to meet Mr. Root's objection. He asked why Mr. Root favored Article Ten in March and raised objections to it in June.

Mr. Pomerene also cited statements in recent years by Republican Leader Lodge in favor of concerted world action to maintain peace and continued: "The treaty before this senate does not go as far as the distinguished senator from Massachusetts was willing to go in 1918. Many of those who criticize the league have no remedy to propose. Many others present suggestions which to a greater degree would jeopardize the chances of ratification and postpone the day for the rehabilitation of the world."

JAPANESE TEA.

Mrs. Margaret Williams entertained on Sunday afternoon with a pretty appointed tea, honoring her house-guest, Miss Ruth Tallman, of Toledo, Miss Tallman formerly lived here, but for the past year has been at Mincola, L. I., where her father, Captain C. A. Tallman, was in service. Just a few of her friends and acquaintances were bidden to tea, which was a very charming Japanese affair. The cloth and linens were in blue and white oriental design, and a mammoth bowl of nasturtiums and queen's face centered the long table, while blue candles tied with white tulle were at the four corners. There was only candle light in the room as the guests took their places, and the whole made a beautiful scene, with the delightful hostess presiding charmingly.

ELABORATE TEA.

Miss Marian Sullivan, of S. Jameson avenue, was the charming hostess on Sunday to a number of guests when she entertained with tea at the Country club, complimenting Miss Hazel Wright's guest, Miss Gertrude Hunter. The private dining room was prepared for the occasion and was made very attractive with flame colored gladioli, a large bowl tied with lavender tulle centering the table. At the four corners of the table there were flame colored candles in crystal holders tied with lavender tulle bows. It was a delightful party. Mrs. Harry Gayer and Miss Hazel Wright presided at the tea table.

Following the serving of the delicious tea, there were musical selections by several of the talented musicians present. Miss Violet Bradley, Mr. Ralph P. Mackenzie and Mr. Harley Holmes played piano and violin numbers, different arrangements and Mrs. Harry Gayer sang.

The ensemble numbers of Mrs. Gayer, Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Holmes were splendid.

Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Harley Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Mackenzie, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gooding, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. A Chance to Live

(By Zoe Beckley)

ANNIE GETS AN INVITATION.

"Oh, mother! mother!" Annie shouted, bursting into the Hargan kitchen that night, waving her ten-dollar bill. "I'm a human being, dear! Not a machine any longer, not just a cog in a wheel to be driven and driven!"

Aunt Margaret had a windfall that week, too. An author gave her a manuscript to type. It meant a little financial margin for them all. To celebrate the new glory and the promise that sang in her heart of even better success to come, Annie dared buy herself a blouse. A flimsy, fussy, pretty thing, prettier than any she had stitched in her factory days.

Regarding it in its noble pasteboard box, all daintily up with pink tissue paper, Annie thought suddenly of Miss Wells and Settlement House—and the mortifying memory of her wild dream there. Little shadowy beings began to creep out like ghosts. Work wasn't everything—

She shut the waist in its box and shoved it under her bed. She wore it to the office Saturday. All the girls "dressed up" a little then and most of them had engagements for the half holiday. It was a bright warm September day. Simms had actually stayed at home for an elderly gentlemanly game of golf, and the office relaxed a bit more than usual.

The telephone buzzed, and when Annie stuck the plug in (she never got them twisted any more) and listened, a youthful, feminine voice asked, "Is Mr. Brady there?"

"Mr. Brady?" puzzled Annie, a crease between her eyebrows. "Are you sure he's with this office—Simms & Orent?"

"Oh, yes!" came the answer. "Mr. Chester Brady—'Chet.'"

Annie laughed outright. "Chet," the office factotum! To think of sixteen-year-old "Chet" being "Mister Brady" to somebody!

Mr. Chester Brady was duly called and asked his fair friend to "hold the wire." With dignity he strode into Simms' private room to an accompaniment of clerical titters.

So even Chet had a "date" for the afternoon, mused Annie wistfully, as the girls began to close their desks and prink before the mirror. She had some work to finish, and was still tapping the typewriter when a voice beside her made her look up.

"Shouldn't work after while blouse; you'll be put out of the union!"

It was a good-natured, harmless youth, Bernard Carroll, who was employed in the order department, and had often exchanged pleasantries with Annie. "Bernie" was a dapper young person to whom every new face in the office was an adventure.

"Didn't expect to be caught by a walking delegate," Annie smiled, tapping off the finishing words of her letter. She knew this belated mark of Mr. Carroll's esteem was because of her new modish blouse.

"Speaking of walking," pursued Bernie, "why don't we move on out of here and walk to the Staten Island ferry? It's a nice little sail on a day like this."

"All right," said Annie, with a little surge of gladness. "Why don't we?" It was good not to be left entirely out of things.

ARGUE OVER MOVE FOR WOMEN CLERGY

Church of England Supporters Participate in Hot Debate

LONDON, July 21.—Excitement attended a debate in a public meeting held the other day in Church House, Westminster, the headquarters of the Church of England, over the question whether women should be admitted to the priesthood. The principal debaters were Miss Maude Royden, a leader of the movement here for women clergy, and the Rev. A. G. Magee, a staunch opponent of the scheme.

Clergymen joined with laymen and women in hissing, booing and cheering, according to the side they took. "To admit women to the priesthood," the Rev. Mr. Magee declared, "would be a revolution, not an evolution. They cannot have a revolution of that character until the whole church has set its seal upon it and God has approved of it."

Hissing and cries of "shame!" greeted his discussion of the moral relationship likely to rise between men and women in the church if the latter were admitted. "You cannot get away from the sex question," he said. "We are made as we are, and that fact remains."

Amid applause from his friends he said he believed the granting of the priesthood to women "would make her false to her master and false to her sex."

"Women," argued Miss Royden, "desire women as priests, and their admission to the priesthood would make it much easier for women to get help from the church."

After quoting the New Testament to show that the commission of the priesthood was given to men and women alike in the "Upper Room" at Jerusalem, she continued: "The head of the Church of England has not always been a man."

Physician Held For Baby's Death

RICHMOND, Ind., July 21.—Manslaughter is charged in an indictment here against Dr. Frederick W. Krueger, who it is charged in the indictment threw John Smith, one day old deferred son of Lewis and Elsie Smith, fifty feet into the city dump on July 1. The baby was picked up by a boy and the child lived twelve hours.

Neglect of the child after birth Krueger laid it on a bureau for nine hours, on the floor for six and carried it in his machine for eight hours without proper attention.

The baby, it is declared, could not have lived and the question involved is whether a physician is justified in giving improper attention to a deformed child.

The Lima Times' Fascinating Fiction Feature

TODAY—"The Two Admirals," by James Fenimore Cooper.
TUESDAY—"File No. 113," by Gaboriau.

JAMES FENIMORE COOPER

Cooper was born in New Jersey in 1796, but when only about a year old removed to his father's almost feudal domain at Coopers-town, New York, where he died in 1851. There he learned the wilderness which plays so important a part in his books, and there, too, he probably acquired that headstrong self-assertiveness and disregard of the opinions of others which made him, while one of the few most widely read authors in the world, one of the most cordially detested individuals to be found. He had a positive genius for getting in bad. While Dickens and Kipling deeply wounded one nation by their American Notes, they were pigmies in this respect compared to Cooper. He could exasperate any and everybody and apparently cultivated with pleasure his habitual aptitudes. Lowell wrote of him as "Cooper, who's written six volumes to prove he's as good as a Lord." An English magazine described him as a "billionaire braggart," a "liar," a "full jackass," and "insect," a "grub," and a reptile. The "New Yorker" pleasantly wrote of him: "He is as proud of blackguarding as a fishwoman is of billingsgate. It is as natural to him as snarling to a tom-cat or growling to a bull-dog. He has the scorn and contempt of American Scott," he has probably been as widely read in all languages as any man who ever put pen to paper.

JAMES FENIMORE COOPER,

"THE TWO ADMIRALS"

By JAMES FENIMORE COOPER
(Condensation by Cyrus Townsend Brady)

Some time since an American publisher invited a group of men, including among others Roosevelt, Barnes, Spears, Connolly and the writer, to select the six greatest romances of the sea. "The Two Admirals" was the one of Cooper's sea tales included by a unanimous vote. Well does the book deserve its selection for it is without question the greatest of all the novels of the sea, all of which I have read and not a few of which I have written.

It has more of the best Cooper, and less of his worst, than any of his naval or other romances. No writer was even more at home on a ship's deck than Cooper, not even Mary-att. And all his knowledge of the great deep, the way of ships therein the habits and customs of sailors, has been utilized in full measure in this immortal story. It rings true alike to seamen and landmen.

There is a subsidiary story concerning the love affairs of a gallant young sea officer, Sir Wycherly Wycombe, and Mildred Dutton-Blauwater, a damsel as lovely, as delicate and as human as Cooper at his worst could describe. Whenever she appeared she was either suffused with blushes or bursting into tears. On one occasion she wept steadily for above one half hour!

The supposed daughter of a drunken, retired officer and a woman of the middle class, Mildred turns out frank, unwordly sailor that he was, cleverly played upon politicians, began to waver between the House of Hanover, whose commission he held, and the House of Stewart, to which his heart inclined.

To bring matters to a head M. le Vice-Amiral, le Comte de Vervillain, sailed from Cherbourg with a fleet of such ships as fairly entitled him to challenge the English fleet of Vice-Admiral Oakes for the mastery of the narrow seas.

The latter, more than willing to try out the matter, at once put to sea in a heavy gale of wind, his capital ships weighing anchor in succession with long intervals between them so as to spread a broad clew to intercept the French. Bluewater with his division brought up the rear. The Rear Admiral was obsessed with the idea that de Vervillain's course had something to do with the Pretender's effort and his conscientious scruples threw him into a piteous state of indecision. The Vice-Admiral was not troubled by any such subtle casuistry. He only saw the enemy whom it was his duty to beat when, where and how he could.

After a series of the most brilliant tactical maneuvers and a successful minor engagement with the whole French fleet by his division alone—the two divisions had got separated in the mad gale and Bluewater had called his own ships around him—the Vice-Admiral found himself with five ships in the vicinity of the French who were just double in number. Far away to windward the morning disclosed the five ships of the Rear Admiral's division slowly standing down toward his superior under easy sail.

Bluewater was still in his state of painful indecision. As soon as within signal distance, by using a private and personal code, he sent the following pleading despatch to his considerate superior:

"God Save—Make No Signal—Engage Not"

This signal plunged Oakes, fully aware of the state of his beloved junior's mind, into the most terrible dilemma. Without the assistance of Bluewater's division he could not hope to engage the enemy with the least chance of success. On the other hand should he now withdraw without fighting he would have failed in his duty and would have been professionally ruined—and rightly. His mind was at once made up. Attack he would and must.

Would the friendship between the two admirals stand the test he imposed upon it? Did the younger care more for Oakes and England than for the young prince and France? A short time would determine. Magnanimously refraining from making any embarrassing signal to his friend which might force his hand untimely, Oakes boldly led down upon the waiting French line and with his five ships brought them to close action. The French were quick to take advantage of the opportunity given them by the hesitations of the English Rear Admiral. Jolding Oakes with five ships to leeward de Vervillain threw the other five under the Prez, his Contre Amiral on the windward side of the English doubling on them, placing them between two fires.

Although Oakes' division was fought with the fury of despair the end was at hand when the opportune arrival of Bluewater, who could not stand seeing his friend pounded to pieces and who threw political considerations to the wind and bore down on the triumphant French der a press sail, completely changed the issue and wrested victory from defeat. All of which is set in a succession of sea pictures of surpassing grandeur.

Bluewater, remorseful over his inconstitute, actually carried the French Rear Admiral's ship by boarding at the head of his men, receiving a mortal wound in the attack by way of expiation.

Space allows me only to mention the mastery descriptions of ship maneuvering and thrilling sea fighting. I can only refer to some of the well-drawn characters in the story the two splendid admirals, their captains the officers and seamen, especially old Gallardo the admiral's steward, delineated out of a large experience with a sure hand. And the great ships themselves are imbued with personality so dear to a seaman's heart.

The touching scene at the close of the book, in which Oakes old, infirm, forgetful, praying before the tomb of Bluewater in the great Abbey of Westminster, recalls the last battle the two had fought and with all of his former fire and fervor describes again those moments of suspense preceding the glorious victory, fifty rounds out of the tale. And then death unites him with the friend he had loved and lost.

I have read the book a score or more of times with ever increasing joy. I envy anyone who takes ship for the first time to sail and fight with these two great masters of the sea.

LIQUOR HELD ILLEGAL
TOLEDO, O., July 21.—In probably the first ruling of the kind handed down in the United States Judge Cosline here today held that liquor, like gaming devices, has no legal standing and cannot be recovered in court. The decision came in a case in which a plaintiff sought the recovery of whiskey declared to have been stolen. The judge erased the case from the docket.

OVERWORK CAUSES YOUTH'S INSANITY

ST. MARYS, July 21.—His mind unseated by continuous work and no recreation, John R. Beery, Mercer county youth, was Friday taken by Sheriff Blatz, Marshall Duncan and Dr. F. E. Ayers to the Toledo State hospital.

The young man's life to date had been given to continuous and unbroken toil on his father's farm north of Celina. His waking moments while in the house were devoted to books for which he had a passion. His mind had wandered at times since two years ago when his horse was struck and killed by an automobile driven by drunken people.

Suffering from convulsions resulting from uraemic poisoning, Harmon Essman, aged 58, passed away at 8:20 p. m. Friday, July 18, 1919, at the home of his niece, Mrs. John Burger, 127 South Chestnut street.

Mr. Essman began feeling bad Saturday afternoon (a week ago) and when his condition gradually grew worse, he was moved about 11 o'clock that night from his rooming place at the Herbert Makley residence on North Main street, to the home of his niece and sister, Mrs. John Burger and Mrs. Caroline Schulte, where he was cared for till death relieved him. For a couple of days the fore part of the week his condition rallied and he was thought to be getting along nicely. Thursday night, however, he was seized with convulsions, and went from one to another, till his strength finally lapsed and he was unable to stand more.

Manager Lester J. Hudson and a force of fifteen men remain on duty at the American chain shop, awaiting orders from the company. Up to date nothing of a positive nature has come through the forecast what final action will be taken. Meantime sharp interest centers around the big shop.

Events may prove the American Chain company to be biding its time waiting the outcome of a Columbus problem involving the shop located there. The Columbus municipal court a few days ago adopted a resolution to appropriate $225,000 for buying the American Chain company's site. A portion of the ground is said to be needed by the city because of river improvements.

RETURNED SOLDIER LOSES HIS MIND

WAPAKONETA, July 21.—Affidavit of lunacy against Henry Sandkuhl was filed in Probate Court by Ora A. Hinton, and as the army authorities had transported the accused direct to the Toledo State Hospital, the Court and Sheriff went to Toledo where the accused was taken into custody. The court ascertained the condition of the patient, and upon his return and after hearing the testimony submitted, the court found Sandkuhl to be insane and ordered that he be committed to the Toledo State Hospital. Sandkuhl became insane while in the U. S. army, as a private in the 23rd infantry, and was taken to Toledo from Fort Benjamin Harrison. He is a son of Herman Sandkuhl of St. Marys.

DELPHOS

NEW SYSTEM FIRE CALLS AT DELPHOS

DELPHOS, July 21.—A new system for use in case of fire has been installed by the Delphos Home Telephone Company and all residents of Delphos are asked to familiarize themselves with the method of placing calls in case of a fire so as to get the best service.

Special lines have been run from the telephone exchange to the city building, water works station and to the electric light plant. All three of these lines are operated with one plug and, if a call is correctly made by the party reporting the fire, all three places will get the call at the same time.

The report made by members of the membership soliciting committee at the Community meeting which was held at the Commercial club rooms Friday evening were very gratifying, and will boost the membership roll to nearly two hundred. Not all of the members of the committee were able to be present, however, and some of the committee reported that they had been unable to see the parties who had been in their lists. The committee was therefore continued with instructions to report at the next meeting, which will be held on Thursday, July 21.

The body of John T. Groves was brought to this city from Van Wert and taken to the home of his nephew, Henry Groves, living on the Spencer-ville road south of the city.

The funeral was held from the Christian church, the services being conducted by Rev. Hantz, the Christian minister at Spencer-ville, who has been a friend of the family for years. Music was furnished by Rev. W. E. Daniels and Paul Harter.

Rain Interferes in Struggle
With Camp Perry Team

Not to be outdone by the recent actions of that fast traveling team, The Cincinnati Reds, the home guard yesterday afternoon, took a day off when J. Pluvius got smart and kicked over the sprinkling can. The old gent evidently has been informed as to just how dry it is here in Lima, so he sent down a little of that stuff that flows around and under bridges. Anyway the game with the soldiers from Camp Perry had to be called off.

Both teams were straining at the leash, as it were, for a chance at each other's throats. The two aggregations were in the best of condition, and as both have been playing ball at a speedy clip this season, a torrid contest was anticipated. However, it is very probable the soldiers will be returned here in the very near future.

It has not been definitely decided as just who will perform here next Sabbath, the weather permitting. Either a soldier team from Camp Taylor, Ky., or the Lincoln Life aggregation from Fort Wayne will be here. Which ever put in its appearance you may rest assured the struggle will be well worth attending, for both the outside teams are playing sensational ball this season.

English Champion and American
He Defeated in London Battle

Jimmy Wilde, world champion flyweight, who can't make a match attractive to the sporting public unless he concedes pounds to his opponent, again has demonstrated that he is one of the wonders of the prize ring. In a return match with Pat Moore, the Memphis, Tenn. bantamweight, who several months ago got a decision over him in a three-round bout, the little Englishman defeated the American in a twenty-round bout at the National Sporting Club in London. The Prince of Wales, Prince Albert and General Pershing were interested spectators. This photograph was taken during their recent three-round bout.

FRENCHMAN IS MOST PROBABLE
CONTENDER FOR PRESENT CHAMP

Carpentier's Victory Over Dick Smith, the British Lightweight, Gives Him Advantage Over Other Challengers, Fight Fans Think

NEW YORK, July 21.—Georges Carpentier, the European heavyweight champion, looms up as a possible contender with Jack Dempsey for the world's championship by reason of his victory over Dick Smith, the British heavyweight in Paris last night.

It was Carpentier's first ring appearance in nearly five years and his showing against the Englishman gave the lie to the stories of his having gone back and not being fit for a hard battle. The real test of his fitness, however, will come when he goes up against Joe Beckett, holder of the British heavyweight title in London on September 2.

In last night's bout Carpentier showed himself to be possessed of his old-time punching power and whirlwind speed. He had things his own way from start to finish. He floored Smith twice before the knock-out came in the eighth round. It was remarked that his tactics resembled those by which Dempsey bested Willard—running and carrying the fight to his opponent so that the latter never had a chance to "get back."

It was announced that Fred Fulton has challenged the Frenchman, and while a match between these two might pave the way for a bout between Carpentier and Dempsey it would not serve to give much of a line on the Frenchman's chances against Dempsey, because Fulton did not last long enough with Dempsey to give him basis for comparison.

It is understood that Kearns and Dempsey are both willing to take on Carpentier if a match can be arranged. Tex Rickard also is understood to be willing to arrange proper backing for such a match as he is confident that that he would prove a greater drawing card than the Dempsey-Willard affair. The Middle West, however, is not likely to get another chance at a match of such magnitude, unless it should be possible to hold it within reach of Chicago.

THROUGH THE SPORTSCOPE

With President Baker's well-known ideas of economy, one wonders how he manages to keep that Packard in his Philly garage.

Terry Turner refused to go to Milwaukee, but has signed with the Athletics. Which shows how the Wisconsin metropolis has slumped in ball players' estimation since the first of July.

Jess Willard says he didn't know what happened after the first blow he took on the jaw. He didn't miss much.

We don't know whether ball players laugh or weep when they are traded from the Phils to the Cards or vice versa, but the chances are such players are too numb to realize the shift is being made.

Can Pat Moran make his Reds last till the finish? asks an eastern critic. Why, if there is one thing Pat Moran is trying to do it is to avoid having them last at any time.

With the referee and the boxing board deciding that Willard was knocked out in the third round, it looks as if those birds who had a bet on the fourth round will have to take the case to the supreme court.

By the way, isn't it queer what a man will do for money. Imagine a fellow letting the whole world know that he actually bet money on Willard.

If one of the Regular Red pitchers didn't fizzle once in a while the fans would be writing into the papers to find out what had become of Fisher and Mitchell.

There is said to be a scarcity of good clowns in the circus game these days. Looks like Jess Willard will have to go back to the sawdust life.

A Boston writer refers to Home basemen of the National league. No danger of that scribe ever getting in bad for exaggerating.

Tex Rickard doesn't seem to think $100,000 enough for his portion in promoting the Toledo bout. Some of the fans who saw the mill have the same idea. They think at least six months ought to be tacked on.

If Willard had taken to boxing like he did to the movies, what a champion he would have been. He was only in the film game a short time till he pulled a flop that had anything Charlie Chaplin ever staged faded a mile.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Jess Willard wasn't such far-seeing business person after all. For several years he received credit for disregarding managerial leeches and employing a confidential secretary. But where was Jess' sagacity during his stay in Toledo, prior to the championship bout with Jack Dempsey?

The new holder today possesses a substantial sum derived from the cinema exhibitors, who purchased his end of the motion picture rights of the bout on July 4. Jess disregarded the chance to sell his rights. As a result Dempsey isn't losing any sleep as to whether the films are ever permitted to be screened in Ohio or not. The same cannot be said of Kansas Jess.

Reds Are After
Rochester Player

ROCHESTER 21.—Cincinnati sports writers are chronicling disappointment because of the Reds management's failure to secure King Kelly, the Colt firstsacker, for the Red outfield.

Believing the newspapers, King George was wanted to plug the outfield hole, the scribes going so far as to predict that Kelly and his bat would assure the pennant for the Reds. The Reds have five left-handed hitters in the lineup and a right hand wallpaper of Kelly's caliber is just the medicine needed. Rube Bressler, the pitcher, has been plugging along in the outfield, alternating with Sherwood Magee, and neither is hitting.

STOCKS DROP AS PRESIDENT IS ILL

NEW YORK, July 21.—An abrupt decline of almost six points in Butte and Superior Mining, due to the outcome of recent litigation, was the only conspicuous exception to the general strength of the stock market at the opening of today's session. Shipings, oil and steel led, Atlantic Gulf, Mexican Petroleum, Pan-American and Midvale Steel gaining 1 to 2 1/2 points. Motors also improved on the new high record for Stutz and General Motors featured the tobacco, copper and several of the independent steel yielded fractionally with rally.

Prices broke precipitately soon after the opening, the reaction coinciding with advice from Washington announcing President Wilson's indisposition and recurrent weakness in sterling exchange. The reversal extended from 2 to 3 points in the motor group, excepting Studebaker and Stromberg which were strong; 1 1/2 to 4 in the various metals; 2 to 5 in oil and 1 to 3 in equipment and shippings. Later United States Steel and American International led irregular recovery, rails also improving. Call money opened at 5 to 1 per cent.

TONIGHT TO BE BIG NIGHT IN CITY COUNCIL

STANDING ROOM IS SURE TO BE AT BIG PREMIUM IN HALL

Immense Crowd Will be on Hand When Petitions Are Presented

ABOUT 1,000 NAMES

Are on the Petitions Up to Noon Today, Asking for Resignations

"It'll be a hot time in the old town tonight," or, at least, that is what indications point to now. Practically every business man in Lima who was asked if he is going to attend council this evening replied in the affirmative. All seem to think there are going to be do's at tonight's regular session.

Will They Resign?
Many anticipate the resignation of the seven councilmen concerned in the signing of that "scrap of paper," which was sent to the Ohio State Election Commission in connection with the recent hearing of the Lima Natural Gas Company before that body.

Thousands Names
Up until noon today, petitions placed in the various business houses in the city had been signed by probably a thousand or so men. Of some 15 petitions examined, they will possibly average 50 names a petition. However, indications are there will be a lot of persons present at the evening session who have not signed a petition.

Just what move the councilmen concerned in the matter will make is not known, but according to attaches of the city hall, it is not likely any will tender their resignations, this evening.

No Other Business
Other than the petition, there will be little or no business transacted at the meeting, officials say.

Asks Divorce on Neglect Charge

Charging gross neglect of duty, Blanche McClain today filed suit for divorce from Oscar McClain. She avers McClain has failed to provide food, clothing and other necessities of life, and that he is a habitual drunkard. While under the influence, the plaintiff avers, he abused her, and threatened to do her bodily harm. She asks that her maiden name, Blanche Penn, be restored to her. The couple were married March 17, 1917.

Weather Mays Band Concert

Owing to the threatening weather the band concert held Sunday afternoon at Fairport park, was not as well attended as expected. The concert was given in the early evening from 5 until 7:30 o'clock. The Liberty band furnished music, in addition to which there were a number of vocal selections, both solos and chorus. The concert, the second of which was given Sunday, are held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, and will be held throughout the month of August at the park on Sunday afternoons.

MASONIC NOTICE.
Stated communication of Lima Lodge No. 205, P. and A. M. this evening. Work on Master Mason degree. Visiting brethren welcome. C. S. Carl, W. M.; Wallace Landis, Secretary.

BIG HARVEST

FARMERS report a good yield of wheat, oats and all indications point to an excellent corn crop. The smaller grains do not harvest as heavily as expected, yet the year is a good one for the farmer.

Wouldn't a man appear absurd to neglect his planting and then at harvest time expect to find grain in abundance?

Something like this is the man who spends all his money, thinking that somehow his future needs will be provided for, or not thinking at all.

Start a savings account, plant all the money you can spare, and watch it grow. Five per cent interest may not make you rich but it will help a lot when the Autumn of life comes.

EXPLAINS NATURE AND NECESSITY OF LIMA FREE CLINIC

Dr. Thor Parent, Director Impresses Members of Rotary Club

NEED HITCHING RACKS

Farmers Not Given Sufficient Accommodations in Lima for Horses

Handling the subject without gloves and bringing a large body of men sharply to a realization of the danger of social diseases, Dr. Klor Parent, director of the government Free Clinic in Lima, told members of the Lima Rotary Club about the workings of the clinic at the noon luncheon Monday.

Dr. Parent made clear the extensive campaign now being carried on by the government for the eradication and prevention of social diseases, and urged that the men of Lima get behind the movement and make it possible, by their moral support, to secure ordinances making it compulsory for everyone suspected of having syphilis to take a blood test, which is the final proof in examination.

The speaker made so earnest an appeal for support for this nationwide movement that he made a very deep impression upon his hearers and it is evident that many members of the club were made supporters of the local clinic through becoming aware of the necessity of its operations.

Want Hitch Racks
Dr. J. H. Hattenburg, president of the club, called the attention of the members to the fact that there are no longer enough hitching racks on Lima streets to take care of the horses of farmers in the Lima District will still drive in.

The president made the rather startling statement that only two-fifths of the farmers have automobiles, and that the three-fifths who drive are not given accommodations in Lima and were as a natural result going to other towns to trade.

The matter was referred to the committee on civic affairs, which will co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants Association in an effort to provide the necessary accommodations.

Guest List
Guests included Lieut. Col. F. Selfridge, guest of O. B. Selfridge; Dr. Parent; L. J. Hoffman, guest of M. K. Tafe; John Abele, New Orleans, guest of S. W. Baker; A. Maloney, Columbus, guest of P. M. Hulsen; Sam Seeman, Cincinnati, guest of Sam Weinfield.

The Success of A Great Idea The Brunswick Method of Reproduction

The success of The Brunswick Method of Reproduction is of significance to all purchasers. None can afford to disregard the importance of such a definite achievement in the phonographic field.

Former methods had outlived their usefulness. The one-record phonograph no longer satisfied. The Brunswick Method of Reproduction brought new conceptions. It taught the public to demand more of all phonographs.

Music-lovers are no longer content with strident, metallic quality of tone. They insist on the true and natural tonal-beauty of The Brunswick.

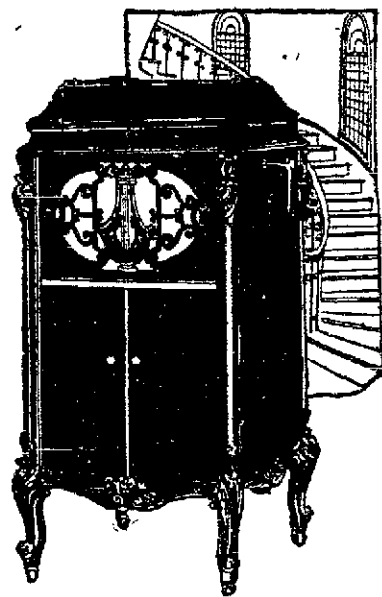

this possible. It is one of the notable features of The Brunswick Method of Reproduction. Regardless of make, it presents the proper needle and diaphragm to any record. By providing the exact weight on the record, surface noises are reduced to a minimum.

The Amplifier

Another great Brunswick advancement is the Amplifier. It consists of a carefully moulded sound-chamber of holly-wood. This vibrant "throat" is as acoustically correct as a master-violin. It reproduces with faultless truth the most difficult of musical sounds—voice or instrumental. Harsh metallic tones are banished. Your favorite records are heard with new delight.

Volume of sound in The Brunswick can be adapted to large or small rooms by a controller. This is placed inconspicuously at the back of the instrument where it does not interfere with the harmony of the case design.

The Ultona

The Brunswick was the first of the major instruments to play all records. The Ultona made

Tangled Case in Two Courts

This afternoon, Justice Morris, is hearing the case of J. R. Dawson against C. R. Burden. This is rather a tangled affair, and the families of both men are said to be implicated in the mixup.

Saturday afternoon, Burden swore out a warrant against Dawson, in Justice Hamilton's court, alleging Dawson assaulted him, and nearly hit a finger off, besides bruising his shoulder. Shortly afterwards Dawson entered Justice Morris' court and lodged a complaint against Burden, and Mrs. Burden.

Dawson charges he fears Burden will beat, kill and assault him, and is also afraid Burden will assault a 17-year old son of Dawson's. Mrs. Dawson avers she is afraid Mrs. Burden will assault her. Justice Morris is hearing one case this afternoon, and Justice Hamilton will hear the other tomorrow afternoon.

FINDS PRICES IN EAST ARE RISING IN FABRIC LINE

Manager J. Tohle, of the People's Credit Clothing company, 200 South Main street, has just returned after a visit to his firm's headquarters in New York where his opinion was eagerly sought on policy, merchandising, etc., for the People's chain store organization that extends into nearly 100 cities throughout the country.

Mr. Tohle reports that market conditions are entirely without precedent. Due to labor conditions and the scarcity of merchandise, good clothing is at a premium and the prices retail stores will be compelled to ask the coming season, will be at least 50 per cent higher than the present season's prices.

Discovers drug which loosens sore, touchy corns so they lift out

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told to use a drug called freecorn, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn, the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out with the fingers.

This new ether drug is the recent discovery of a noted Cincinnati chemist. It is a sticky substance which dries the moment it is applied and is said to simply shrivel the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce of freecorn will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You are further warned that cutting at a corn is a suicidal habit.
